Clinical Psychology Internship approved by American Psychological Association, 1973

M.S., 1966, San Francisco State University, Clinical Psychology

B.A., 1964, Mills College, Oakland, California

Licensed to practice psychology in California

Member, Psychologists for Social Responsibility

Dr. Farley has practiced as a clinical psychologist for 45 years. She brings that experience to her consultations with agencies, governments, and advocates for prostituted and trafficked women. She has articulated the harms of prostitution, pornography, and trafficking as an expert witness in forensic evaluations. She has been categorized as a legal expert on the effects of sexual violence against women and children, posttraumatic stress disorder, dissociation, prostitution, and trafficking. In 2013 she received the Innovative Demand Reduction Program award from Global Centurion/Norma Hotaling Awards.

Melissa Farley has written 32 peer-reviewed articles on prostitution and trafficking, and 2 books, Prostitution, Trafficking & Traumatic Stress (2004) and Prostitution and Trafficking in Nevada: Making the Connections (2007). Her research has been used by governments in South Africa, Canada, France, Cambodia, New Zealand, Ghana, Sweden, United Kingdom, and United States for education and policy development on prostitution and trafficking.

Dr. Farley has spoken at and keynoted a number of conferences on the topic of prostitution and trafficking. She has a wide range of experience in teaching and consultation. Dr. Farley has provided consultation as an expert on the harm of prostitution to the Medical Examining Board of the State of California, in 2002. She has provided psychological evaluations of prostituted young women in California, Florida, and Illinois. She conducted a forensic evaluation of a woman trafficked into the United States from Asia. The civil case was settled. Dr. Farley is an associate scholar with the Center for World Indigenous Studies, and has taught seminars on research for social activism at CWIS in Yelapa, Mexico.

Dr. Farley is on the editorial board of the Journal of Psychological Trauma. She has evaluated grant proposals for research on prostitution and trafficking for governmental and nongovernmental agencies. Dr. Farley regularly reviews articles on the topic of prostitution and trafficking for peer reviewed journals including AIDS Care, Australian and New Zealand Journal of Criminology, British Medical Journal, Canadian Journal of Criminal Justice, Child Abuse and Neglect, Feminism and Psychology, Journal of Interpersonal Violence, Journal of Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, Journal of Primary Prevention, Journal of Trauma and Dissociation, Journal of Women, Politics & Policy, International Social Work, Political Science Quarterly Review, Psychology of Women Quarterly, Sex Roles, Criminal Justice and Behavior, Sex Roles, Social Science and Medicine; Crime, Law, & Social Change: an International Journal; Violence against Women; Western Journal of Nursing Research; Women and Criminal Justice; and Women's Studies International Forum.

At the nonprofit she founded 20 years ago, Dr. Farley addresses the connections between the sex trade, on the one hand, and racism, sexism and poverty. The Prostitution Research & Education website (<http://www.prostitutionresearch.com>) provides information about trafficking, pornography, and prostitution, including a survivors' blog, a list of agencies offering services to women who have been in prostitution, and news about research and anti-trafficking policy. The PRE website receives approximately 40,000 page views per month. Advocates across the globe have used materials on the website on behalf of women and children in prostitution. The site is contacted by survivors of prostitution, students, teachers, government officials, criminal justice personnel, social workers, legal advocates and nongovernmental agencies that are developing services to women who have been prostituted or trafficked.

Dr. Farley collaborated in the 1990s with a team of researchers in northern California at Kaiser Permanente who studied the long term effects of violence against women on health and how that violence impacts preventive health care for women. Several peer-reviewed publications resulted from this work.

Melissa Farley edited Prostitution, Trafficking & Traumatic Stress, 2004, a collection of 16 articles on these topics, published by Haworth Press. Farley is the senior author of the chapter, Prostitution and Trafficking in 9 Countries: Update on Violence and Posttraumatic Stress Disorder. This article has been distributed by the Trafficking in Persons Office of the U.S. State Dept. She also contributed to two chapters in the book, Dissociation among Women in Prostitution by Colin Ross, Melissa Farley, and Harvey Schwartz; and the chapter Prostitution and Trafficking of Women and Children from Mexico to the United States by Marisa B. Ugarte, Laura Zarate, and Melissa Farley.

Dr. Farley wrote Prostitution and Trafficking in Nevada: Making the Connections, 2007 following a 2-year research study in Nevada, sponsored by the Trafficking in Persons Office of the U.S. Department of State. In addition to describing empirical findings resulting from interviews with 45 women in the legal brothels, the book connects legal and illegal prostitution, domestic and international trafficking, and sex trafficking with political corruption and organized crime.
